Knock the "Knocker."

We opine—and we think rightly—that an exterminating committee would be about the "proper candy" in every community to rid itself, as far as practicable, of that ever-present pest—the "knockers," as they are an undesirable adjunct, being far more dangerous and destructive than the ever-hunted coyote. In this connection we wish to state that one of the local "knockers" was out on a recent morning. A stranger in Sonoma was also out, and noticed that a certain lot was for sale. Just then the "knocker" happened along. It was his golden opportunity. In a pleasant manner the stranger commented that the lot was for sale, to which the "knocker" replied: "Yes, this whole darn country is for sale. Everybody wants to sell out and get away." The stranger had nothing further to say, but the chances are that he did not enjoy the beautiful view of the surrounding mountains and vine-clad hills as much as he did before the "knocker" put in his appearance. There are many such.

In our estimation there are but two ways of running a town, which are about as follows:

TO BUILD IT UP.

Boost up your town at every opportunity.

Be alive to everything pertaining to the wellfare of the community in which you reside.

Show an interest in your community by investing; and, as far as practicable, improving your holdings.

If a stranger come into your midst, treat him in a courteous manner, giving him all the desired information at your command, and it is an even bet that he will invest, with a view of remaining and becoming one of you.

And success is certain.

TO RUN IT DOWN.

Run down your town.

Be adverse to everything pertaining to the welfare of the community in which you reside.

If a stranger come into your midst with a view of investing, treat him in a discourteous manner, tell him that the town is going into decay, most of the people not knowing they are alive, and it's dollars to doughnuts that he will take the first train, or probably, walk out of your town.

And success is certain.

"Boost," and the town "boosts" with you—"knock," and you "knock" alone;

it's far better to be a "booster," than a coyote in search of a bone."

The prosperity of a town is not guarded by the wealth of its inhabitants, but by the uniformity with which they pull together when any important undertaking is to be accomplished. A man with a housand dollars at his command and a love for the town in his heart, can do more for the building up and improving of it than the million aire who locks up his capital and snaps his fingers at home progress.

If you have any money to invest in real estate and building, don't hold off because you think it a poor time. Somebody else is doing the same thing. Now is the time to step in and get things at cost, or below, just because the other fellow is afraid. When things pick up, as every sane person knows they will, then you are already started, while the other fellow is jumping around trying to commence.

THE telegraph conveys the startling intelligence that a resident, we think, of the Missouri metropolis, whose hair had long since attained that hue attentive to age, had become dark, and was growing blacker every day—many seeming to think that he had at last found that long sought, and as yet undiscovered "fountain of youth." Be that as it may, we give it up and leave the same to the careful consideration of our readers.

IT is an ill wind that blows nobody good. Late telegraph dispatches state that a great storm had destroyed the hop crop in England, and that article is destined to an upward tendency in this part of Uncle Sam's domain in consequence. Now, if something would only "but in" and "jar" up the price of grapes, everything would be serene, and business, from a financial standpoint, good, all up and down the line for some time to come.

Local Brevities.

It is now getting well along toward that season of the year when the ice monopolist will give way to the coal baron.

A wheelbarrow is a very useful article, but it will not push itself. Just so with an advertisement. Put a man behind the barrow, and a hustler behind the ad, and the accruing results will be surprising.

"The Harvest Moon May be Shining, Mollie, Dear," but that matters little to those in search of good goods at reasonable prices. Your advertising merchant has them—try him and see.

While awaiting the consideration that the perusal of the INDEX-TRIBUNE may have at the hands of its numerous readers, we have ever in view the fact "that all things come to those who hustle while they wait." We have been hustling for people for some years—many of whom have become rich and influential. We are ready to begin hustling for you today, tomorrow, next week, or next month, as you may desire. Write or phone us—we will do the rest.

One Visitor's Celebration.

Somebody has furnished the INDEX-TRIBUNE with the following account of one visitor's celebration on the ninth Probably the writer had not sufficiently recovered from the brain-pressure and exertion required to produce the effusion to submit the same for our issue following the celebration, hence the lateness of its publication. It is a poetical venture, and entitled: "Noon and midnight."

NOON.

Two suns hung over Sonoma—there should have been but one.

MIDNIGHT.

He sat in his room at midnight, with a spirit of travel unrest;
He was dry—he pressed the button—the waiter did the rest.

Her Protector.

"Well, sir," explained young Mr. Sooberbs, "it was like this: I thought my wife might be afraid of tramps, so I bought her a watchdog. He was a fierce looking bull, and I reckoned he'd about fill the bill. I got him in the morning and had him sent right out to the house. When I got home that night one of the toughest looking hoboes you ever saw was sitting on the porch. 'What in thunder are you doing here?' I asked. 'Well, boss,' says he, 'I come lookin' fer a handout, an' de lady she gimme 50 cents to stick around an' pertect her from dat dog o' yours. She's sure scared of 'im.'"—Kansas City Newsbook.

A Girl After His Own Heart.

A Scotchman, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the lady of his choice. After spending the entire day at the telegraph office he was finally rewarded late in the evening by an affirmative answer.

"If I were you," suggested the operator when he delivered the message "I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl that kept me waiting all day for my answer."

"Na, na," retorted the Scot. "The lass who waits for the night rates is the lass for me."—Everybody's Magazine.

Origin of Boston's Glory.

Even as early as the days of Henry VIII. some sort of volunteer force had existed in England, and what is now the Honorable Artillery company was formed at that time and became a center of instruction for the city trained bands during the time of Cromwell. The Honorable Artillery company may be counted among the things which crossed in the Mayflower, for in 1638 was formed the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts.—London News.

To Think About.

"She seems like a very nice girl"

"One whom it would be safe to marry?"

"Oh, no. No girl is safe enough for that. But she's nice enough to think about marrying if you only know when to stop."—Life.

Cupid's Hearty Appetite.

"You know," said the soulful youth, "music is the food of love"—

"Nonsense!" replied the practical fellow. "My love prefers lobster salad, terrapin and other expensive fodder."—Philadelphia Press.

WHICH WAS RIGHT?

See if You Can Untangle the Knots In This Problem.

A young man named Enathlus desired to learn eloquence and art of pleading, and he bargained with Protagoras, the ancient Greek sophist, for instructions, agreeing to pay one half of the fee down and the other half on the first day he gained a case. It took the young man so long to learn that his tutor came to the conclusion that he was delaying his start in business to avoid paying the other half of the fee, so Protagoras sued him for the money.

When the case came up for trial Protagoras said to the young man: "You act most absurdly, young man, because in either case you must pay me. If the judges decide against you, you must pay, and if they decide for you you must pay, for you will then have gained your case."

"You are wrong," replied the young man. "I will win either way. If the judges are for me I will not have to pay, and if they are against me I will not have to pay, for this last was the very bargain between us—namely, if I did not win my case."

The judges considered the case inexplicable, and as they could not see their way to any decision they adjourned the case to a day that never came for any of the principals. On Protagoras' side it was a case of losing when he won and on the young student's side winning when he lost.

ANIMALS AMBIDEXTROUS.

Right handedness and right eyedness came with genus homo. Dr. George M. Gould has watched for them in squirrels that use their front paws to hold nuts, cats that strike at insects in the air or play with wounded mice and in many other animals, but he is certain no preference is given to the right side over the left.

But in the lowest human savages all over the world choice in greater expertness of one hand is clearly present. One cause for its development is in primitive military customs. In all tribes and countries since man used implements of offense and defense the left side, where the heart lies, has been protected by the shield, and the left hand was called the shield hand, while the right hand was called the spear hand.

Next to fighting came commerce. The fundamental condition of bartering was counting with the low numbers, one to ten. The fingers of the free or right hand were naturally first used, and all fingers today are called digits, as are the figures themselves, while the basis of our numberings is the decimal or ten fingered system. Every drill and action of the soldier from ancient Greece to modern America is right sided in every detail. Firing from the right shoulder and sighting with the right eye bring the right eye into prominence.—Exchange.

SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE

Sonoma, Sonoma County, Cal., Sept. 19. 1908

H. H. GRANICE. EDITOR.

Mr. J. K. Bigelow And "His" Platform

MR. J. K. BIGELOW, who sought and secured the nomination for Supervisor of the First district at the hands of the recent Republican County Convention, in his anxiety to get into office, ignores the platform of the party that bestowed the honor upon him, and has builded a platform of his own. "My platform," as he is wont to style it, was given life and being last week under the over-zealous candidate's own signature and was published in a renegade Democratic newspaper and its planks supported in its editorial columns. Why? Well, this article is not dealing with that phase of the question, which will receive attention later on. Suffice it to say, what were more fitting for a Republican candidate who has abandoned his own party platform and constructed one of his own to look to an accessible Democratic insurgent newspaper for support?

In thus ignoring the platform of the party that nominated him and setting up an independent one of his own making, we take it that Mr. Bigelow has forfeited all his rights to the support of the Republican voters of Sonoma, Glen Ellen and Vallejo townships, who are virtually left without a party candidate for Supervisor in their district. Like William Randolph Hearst of the Independence party, Mr. Bigelow, we fear, must look to the disgruntled of all the other parties for support.

This is a serious matter and a violation of faith on the part of a candidate greedy for the votes of everybody and is deserving of the thoughtful consideration of every Republican voter in general and the Republican County Committee in particular. We submit:

(1.) That Mr. Bigelow, while claiming to be a good Republican, has set up and is running upon an independent platform of his own construction.

(2.) That in doing so he has repudiated the platform builded for its candidates by the recent Republican County Convention, whose wisdom is unquestioned by any good Republican.

(3.) That one of the planks in "his platform"—the liquor license question—is a fire-brand and a prohibition doctrine which he has interjected into the campaign for the purpose of toadying to the Prohibition vote.

(4.) That Mr. Bigelow's candidacy is a disturbing element in the local Republican ranks and will be productive of much harm and no good to the party in the present campaign.

"We are outliving the period when the desecration of landmarks and the destruction of buildings is to be tolerated without protest," says a contemporary, and yet here in Sonoma we see before our very eyes the old Mission crumbling away day by day. Not without protest, perhaps, but without concerted effort to stay the ruthless hand of time. Since Hearst purchased the landmark and gave it to the State of California, it has really suffered more neglect that when the former owner used it for the storage of hay. Then it was deemed necessary to keep it in some kind of shape for the practical prosaic purpose for which it was being used; but now it is only a landmark, filled up with sentiment, and the patriots and pioneers, while deploring its condition, do nothing to brace up the old structure, but simply lament that a State appropriation was not made for its restoration. Undoubtedly after Mr. Hearst made the gift, the State should have acknowledged his munificence by making a suitable appropriation, but since politicians have been irreligious in their duty, we who dwell in the very shadows of this relic of the padres, should interest ourselves in its preservation. The earthquake made inroads in every crevice, ane the winter rains crumble the sacred dust.

Perhaps no mission in the whole State has such beauteous history and poetry interwoven in its past as has the Mission San Francisco Solano. It has been told with authenticity that this mission proved to be the barrier to the Russian settlement in this State, and with it as a stronghold the inroads of the Russian Bear was so successfully combated that California was spared the foreign domination. It is well known how beneath the mission's tiled roof the padres taught the Indians, instructing them in the arts of civilization and knowledge of God.

It is history that when General Vallejo could find no place to house his family, the fathers gave him the hospitality of the long low annex at the Mission, where several of his children were born.

More romantic yet is the story of the Mission related by Dr. Vallejo, who tells of the burial in the old church of his grandmother, Maria Carrillo and her son Juan. The old lady, whose remains lie buried beneath the baptismal font, was a pious soul, renowned for her charities, and when upon her deathbed her father confessor asked if she had any last request, she asked to be buried beneath the chalice in the Mission. that a drop of holy water might some time fall upon her grave. After her death, through permission of high authority, her interment took place as directed.

With all these associations and with all its value as an attraction to visitors we seem to regard the Mission as worthy our smallest attention. What will future generations think of us?

Who will encourage the Landmark section of the Woman's Club to start a practical grand movement to put the Mission in shape and keep alive the necessity for a legislative appropriation that this splendid relic may be preserved for all time.

Congressman McKinlay.

WHEN Congressman McKinlay returned to his constituency he heard that commendation ever dear to an official's heart, "Well done, thou good and faithful," says the San Francisco Globe.

Duncan McKinlay has proved himself a worker at all times, and he never loses sight of the needs of his district. The appropriation he has obtained for the enlargement of the Federal Building in Sacramento is an evidence of his vigilance and ability, and shows what energy and perseverance can accomplish.

No Congressman from California can show more to his credit than can Mr. McKinlay, notwithstanding the hammering he gets in season and out of season by the insurgent and carping press. At Washington he is regarded as one of the brainiest of legislators, has few superiors as an orator, and his services are always in demand on the lecture platform.

He is one of those who do things. When he goes for some particular legislation needed in his district he makes plain the necessities for it, and his claims not only bring to his support the majority, but he plainly sets forth the greatness of California, and the important part it is to play in the future of the Republic.

A telegram from Mr. McKinlay of a recent date is to the effect that his effort to get a mail service between Oroville, Chico, Marysville and Sacramento on the Northern Electric has been successful

Certainly the Second District has the right man in the right place, and it should keep him there.

THE PASSING OF MRS. C. H. WARD

She Was the Daughter of the Late Judge and Johanna Breitenbach

Mrs. Tillie Breitenbach Ward is dead. She passed away at this place on Friday afternoon of last week after a lingering illness of many months, surrounded by her sorrowing husband and her Sonoma relatives.

Mrs. Ward was the daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Johanna Breitenbach. She was born in this place nearly forty-five years ago, and spent her childhood and young womanhood days in Sonoma, where she always took a leading part in literary and fraternal matters.

The deceased met and married Chas. H. Ward in this place twenty-three years ago, and some time after moved with her husband to San Jose, since which time she has periodically visited the "old folks at home."

Some years ago her once robust health commenced to fail, and seeing that the end was near at hand and inevitable, she returned with her husband several months ago to pass away at her old Sonoma home.

Mrs. Ward was a sister of Mayor Geo. Breitenbach and Louis Breitenbach of this city, and was a woman of fine character and greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends in Sonoma and the Santa Clara valley.

The funeral took place from the residence of Mayor Breitenbach Sunday, and the remains were borne sadly to their last resting place — the Breitenbach family burial plot in Mountain cemetery.

School House Bonds Sold.

The school bonds for the erection of a new public school house in El Verano were sold by the Board of Supervisors last Saturday to the Exchange Bank of Santa Rosa. bonds called for $3500, and were disposed of at their par value and accrued interest.

Work on the new school house will be commenced at once, as the present quarters are inadeqnate for present needs.

Wagner vs. Bianchi.

The riparian rights suit brought in the Superior Court of this county some months ago by Theodore Wagner of Glen Ellen against his neighbor, M. Bianchi, has been set for trial September 29th. The suit is the outcome of the diversion of the waters of a creek which flows through the ranches of the parties to the suit.

Estate of Octave Larquier.

Mrs. Edmond Debat, of El Verano, has been appointed administratrix of the estate of her brother, Octave Larquier, who was recently drowned in Sonoma creek. The attorney for the estate is H. P. Mathewson of this place.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank those kind friends and neighbors for their assistance and sympathy in the hour of our bereavement in the loss of Mrs. C. H. Ward, which deprived a husband of a devoted wife and her brothers of a loving sister. To those friends and particularly to the Rebekah Degree Lodge of Odd Fellows do we extend our heartfelt thanks.

Pleasant Outing.

The original Gaelic Dancing Club of San Francisco, held its annual private outing at Agua Caliente Springs last Sunday. Two hundred members arrived on a special train early in the day, which was passed in dancing, feasting, bathing, etc. Mr and Mrs. Theodor Richards had made ample preparations to entertain the club, whose members were so well pleased with their host and hostess and their beautiful resort that they voted then and there to hereafter hold their annual outings at Agua Caliente.

The officers of the club, which has a large membership, are as follows: President, Jos. P. Kelleher; Vice-President, D. Cotter; Secretary and Treasurer, J. J. Barry; Financial Secretary, Ed. Manning; Floor Manager, B. J. McKlem; Assistant Floor Manager, J. Walsh.

Passing of a Pioneer Resident.

L. M. Johannsen, a pioneer resident of this valley, passed away at his home on the Napa road last Sunday afternoon.

The deceased located here many years ago and engaged in farming, and during his long residence was highly esteemed as a man and a neighbor.

Mr. Johannsen leaves a widow and a grown family, among the latter being Ed. Johannsen, road overseer of the San Luis district. The other children are Mrs. A. N. Pieratt of Capell, Mrs. H. H. Sammons and Mrs. John Golds of Napa and Louis Johannsen of Kings county.

Deceased was also a brother-in-law of ex Supervisor P. H. Thompson of this valley.

Mr. Johannsen was a native of Denmark and aged 76 years.

The funeral took place Tuesday, and was one of the largest that has wended its way to the Mountain cemetery in a long time.

Blair Hart for Supervisor.

Elsewhere in these columns will be found the political card of Blair Hart, Democratic nominee for Supervisor of the First District. Mr. Hart, who has held the office for two terms, needs no introduction at our hands, as he is probably one of the best known men in this section of Sonoma county. During his incumbency he has served the people of his district faithfully and well, and has done much for his district. He has resided in this county many years and has always taken an interest in the upbuilding of southern Sonoma. Mr. Hart is a popular man with all classes, and will poll a heavy vote, not only at his home precincts in Vallejo Township, but in Glen Ellen and Sonoma Townships as well. The only thing that can be said against him is that he is a Democrat, but as his opponent claims there is no politics in the office of Supervisor, he has about as good a chance as the next man of receiving the support of voters of all shades of political opinion

Meeting of the Celebration Finance Committee.

There will be a meeting of the Finance Committee of the ninth of September celebration at the new City Hall this evening. J. K. Bigelow, the chairman of the committee, and his fellow members, will wind up the financial part of the celebration. There will be a surplus of $152.71, which will probably be placed to the credit of some future celebration.

The work of the committee, under the leadership of Mr. Bigelow, has been more than excellent, and the financial report of the chairman, which appears elsewhere in these columns, shows one of the largest public collections ever made in this valley.

Much credit is due to Mr. Bigelow and the fellow members of his committee, and to Mayor Breitenbach and the Board of City Trustees, under whose auspices the celebration was held, for its grand success.

Entertainment and Ball at Agua Caliente.

The ladies of St. Francis Church will give an entertainment and ball at Agua Caliente Springs on the evening of Saturday, September 26th. The funds will be used for the benefit of the church, and as the cause is a worthy one, there should be a big turn out of our people regardless of religious creed.

Wine-making in this valley has commenced in earnest, and many of our wineries are being worked to their full capacity. J. Bethune, manager of the Mt. Pisgah vineyards, was in town yesterday, and reports the grapes to be of excellent quality, but the crop is far short of the average season. He has engaged the services of F. Nichelini, an experienced winemaker and cellar-man, who has a large force of men working under him in the winery. The product of the Mt. Pisgah winery this season will be about 40,000 gallons, as against 65,000 gallons turned out last season.

Price of Grapes.

If is reported that the wineries in and around Healdsburg, not included in the association, are paying from $10 to $15 per ton for grapes. In this valley the price ranges from $10 to $16. What the association is paying, we are not as yet informed.

The Wanderer's Return.

A parent, who reiides not a day's journey from Sonoma, and has an only son, who some months ago forsook the parental roof to wander out into the wide world in search of fortune and fame, was the recent recipient of a letter from the absent one, which clearly elucidates that there are many high places to be encountered on the road to fame, and all is not gold that glitters. The missive, in substance, was as follows:

Dear Father—I am coming home; am traveling by night—that being the only time I can conveniently present myself, as the last place where I went in quest of food they had a very bad dog. Meet me after dark on Saturday evening just outside of town. Bring along a pair of pantaloons; also, a hat and pair of shoes, so I can make a presentable appearance on my arrival home. You can tell mother that she need not worry about "where her wandering boy is tonight," and sister, that I am "coming home some day." Now, father, please do not fail to meet me, and by all means do not forget the articles mentioned. Your son ———.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Clerk, in the City Hall, Sonoma City, for the construction of a stone bridge over the Nathanson Creek on East Napa street opposite the residence of V. Bulotti. Contractors to submit a sample of stone and to state what quarry the stone is procured from, all work to be done according to the plans and specifications now on file in the office of the City Clerk. All bids to be in the hands of the City Clerk not later than 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, October 6th, 1908.

No bid will be considered unless accompanied by a certified check in favor of the President of the Board of Trustees for 10 per cent of the amount of the bid. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

CHAOS IN A LIBRARY.

Francisque Sarcey had a splendid library, of which he was very proud, and there are many stories told in Paris about the singular fates, comic and tragic, that overtook the librarians who successively looked after the late critic's books.

The first was a released convict, who pleaded that to be much among good books would reform him. Sarcey, pugnacious in print, was the kindliest of men in practice. He yielded to the plea. Unfortunately his protege carried the ethical cure too far, for one day he decamped, taking with him the best of M. Sarcey's good books.

The second was a distinctly minor dramatist, Debrit by name and debris by nature. He had worn himself into an incurable melancholy by persistent addiction to the humorist vaudeville habit. Sarcey saw that abstinence from further composition could only be secured if the man had some light occupation with a living wage. He established him in the vacancy left by the convict. A few days later as the critic, returning from the theater, drew his carriage up before his door he heard a smash of shivered glass above him, followed a minute later by what he no longer dared to call a dull thud on the pavement below. The woe begone librarian, wearied of life, had thrown himself out of the window. With his last breath he cursed Sarcey as his murderer.

Third in order was one Bernard, a gladsome youth, whose blithe temperament promised relief from the gloom cast by his predecessor. In the height of his glee he pulled out all the books so as to rearrange them in more logical order on the shelves. He stacked them in craggy pyramids all over the floor. But it happened to be the special day of the week whereon Sarcey was wont to have a few of his theatrical friends, male and female, to lunch with him. After lunch a dance followed as a matter of course. Nothing could dismay the librarian. He whisked the pyramids to four walls and joined in the dance. Next day he asked permission to go home and see his mother. He never returned. The pyramids had to be sorted out by Sarcey's manservant and put pellmell on the shelves again.

The last librarian was Mlle. Blouska, an elderly Polish maiden, who proved an invaluable assistant until she perished miserably in the fire at the charity ball in Paris.

INDIAN MARRIAGES.

Marriage among the Topi, a tribe of the Pueblo Indians, is an institution regarding which those most concerned have least to say. When the parents of a girl find it expedient for her to get married, they look up an available man and negotiate with his parents. After the matter has been arranged the principals are notified. The girl goes to the home of the groom's parents and grinds corn for them for three weeks, while the groom makes a kind of sash for the bride. Then one morning at sunrise they both bathe their heads in cold water, which completes the ceremony. There have been instances of the groom's refusing to go through the performance, which has then proceeded without him and been accounted valid, and several weeks later he has yielded and had his head bathed.

The Navajo ceremony is much more elaborate and impressive, but then the Navajo girls are much nicer. The regular tariff on a Navajo girl entering the port of matrimony for the first time is twelve horses. On the second occasion the tax is nine horses, while subsequent entries are free.

This is not purchase money, but is merely a tribute of respect to a mother-in-law and a token of appreciation of the care and expense involved in bearing and rearing the lady, a recognition not unworthy of consideration by civilized grooms. On the other hand, and deserving of great condemnation, is that law of many tribes, unwritten, but of much sanctity, that a man and his mother-in-law shall never meet after the ceremony.—A. W. Dimock in Outing Magazine.

Coral Islands.

A coral island is sometimes torn to pieces by a great storm, showing that islands disappear in more ways than one. This happened to an atoll in the Marshall group in 1905, when it happened to be in the path of a terrible hurricane. Waves about forty feet high swept over the hapless speck of land, carrying every particle of verdure and every form of life into the sea, and not a human being was saved. The upper part of the coral was broken off and swept away, and a few days later nothing but the placid waters of the ocean was seen where the atoll had stood.

Low Necked Dresses.

In the early days of Pennsylvania there was a law, as we learn from documents in the state department, which stated as follows: "That if any white female of ten years or upward should appear in any public street, lane, highway, church, courthouse, tavern, hall, theater or any other place of public resort with naked shoulders—i. e., low necked dresses—being able to purchase necessary clothing, she shall forfeit and pay a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $200."

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

LAKE MANGISHLAK.

"Grasse, clinging to its Alp, high above the Mediterranean, is supposed to give the stranger a headache on account of its perfume," said a perfumer. "Grasse makes the world's perfumes. You see mountains of flowers there, as in a milling country you see mountains of wheat. The odor is powerful, but as far as headaches—no.

"But in the Caspian district there is a lake so strongly perfumed that if the stranger boats on it or swims in it he really gets a headache. This lake's banks are of white salt crystals, its waters are mauve in color, and from it an odor of violets is exhaled.

"It is Lake Mangishlak. I visited it to see if I couldn't bottle it up and put it on the perfume market. No go.

"You see, it is the presence of the seaweed Polydcystia violacea that gives the lake its hue and smell. When you bottle the waters the seaweed atoms after a few days die and rot. Then the odor changes from violet to—pah!

"But if you are ever in the Caspian visit the Mankishlak peninsula and take a look at the lake. It is in its way as curious as the asphalt lakes of South America."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

SHE WAS INSULTED.

The Sting In the Letter That Came For Her Husband.

"Harry, love," said Mrs. Knew to her husband when he entered his home a few evenings ago, "I've been dreadfully insulted."

"Insulted?" repeated Mr. Knew indignantly. "By whom?"

"By your mother."

"My mother, Flora? Nonsense, dear. She's the kindest woman in the world. And how could she insult you? She isn't here; she's miles away."

"But, Harry, she did insult me," persisted Flora, "and it was done in a letter."

"Show it to me."

"I'll tell you about it. A letter came for you this morning addressed in your mother's handwriting, and so, of course, I opened it."

"Of course," said Mr. Knew dryly.

"It was written to you all the way through, you understand?"

"Yes, I understand that, but where does the insult to you come in?"

"In the postscript. When I read along to that it said, 'Dear Flora—Don't fail to give this letter to Harry; I want him to have it.' Now, tell me, wasn't that an insult?"—Pearson's Weekly.

The Unprodigal Son.

The president of a club of New York waiters said the other day of a parsimonious young man:

"He resembles a chap they tell about in Bucks county.

"Well, finally the old man took sick. His end drew near. The son sat up with him a night or two, expecting him to pass away, but he lingered on.

"On the fifth or sixth night the son, instead of sitting up, put a lamp, turned low, very, very low, on a table by the bed and went off to his own room with the caution:

"'When you feel that it is all over with you, father, don't forget to blow out the lamp.'"—Washington Star.

A Rare Souvenir.

A curious souvenir is preserved in the Bank of England in the shape of a note for £1,000 with which Admiral Lord Cochrane paid his fine when he was falsely accused of spreading with an interested object a rumor that Bonaparte was dead in 1814 so as to cause a rise in the price of stocks. The sum mentioned was raised in subscriptions of a penny by his Westminster constituents. The note is indorsed with the name of the intrepid but ill used salt and has inscribed on it a sentence in which he expresses the hope that one day he will prove his innocence and triumph over his accusers. That consummation was not effected untill eighteen years later, when he was reinstated by William IV.—London Telegraph.

Submarine Navigation.

The idea of the submarine is certainly as much as 200 years old, but most of the earlier plans were flat failures. In 1774 an inventor named Day lost his life during an experimental descent in Plymouth sound. Bushnell of Connecticut in 1775 contrived a submarine vessel propelled by some kind of screw. Robert Fulton also in 1796 invented a box which when filled with combustibles might be propelled under water and made to explode under the bottom of a ship. It is hard to say who was the originator of the idea of the submarine boat unless it was Day.—New York American.

A Hard Case.

"His wife earns her own money."

"Indeed! I did not know she was employed."

"What does she do?"

"Works him to give up."—New York Journal.

Why He Fretted.

Amateur Sportsman (after shooting his best friend)—Too bad, too bad! But I thought you were a deer. The Victim—Don't fret. Amateur Sportsman—Don't fret! Why, man, I promised my wife a pair of horns.—Illustrated Bits.

What's the Use?

"Ought we not to do something more for the preservation of our forests?"
